Discover Biblical Wisdom for Choosing Your Representatives in Government

Thomas W. Jacobson, Global Life Campaign

The greatest wisdom for designing civil government and choosing those who will represent you is given by God in the Bible. If you are willing to invest a little time in Bible study, you can gain that wisdom and know how to wisely choose who will represent you in government.

The 7 questions below are from “Choosing Good Rulers” (ch. 9) in Fire At The Founding. (The book should be available within a couple weeks from WestBow Press, and Amazon and other book sellers.) Next week I’ll give some practical questions to ask yourself about the candidates.

1. Who did God choose, or say to choose, for civil government leadership and military, to represent and protect the people (Exodus 3:1-10; 34:23-24; Numbers 1:1-46; Deuteronomy 16:16-20; 31:14-23; Joshua 1:1-9; Judges 3:9, 15; 6:11-14; 1 Samuel 9:17; 13:8-14; 16:1-13)?
2. What are the characteristics of the men God said to choose for civil rulers, or instructions He gave regarding their duties (Exodus 18:21, 25; 23:6-8; Leviticus 19:15; Deuteronomy 1:15-18; 16:18-20; 2 Samuel 23:1-5)?
3. Joseph was repeatedly promoted, and became Prime Minister of Egypt. How would you describe his character (Genesis 39 – 41)?
4. Daniel was one of the top three government leaders under King Darius. How is his character described (Daniel 6:4)?
5. What had to occur before a chosen king or ruler could take office (2 Samuel 5:1-4)?
6. What are some of the results from “the blessing of the upright,” including rulers that are righteous (Proverbs 11:11)?
7. Who are the most blessed people and nation on earth (Psalm 144:15)?

PRAY that pastors and Christians will become disciplined disciples of the Word of God to gain and use wisdom regarding public policy issues, civil government, and choosing who will represent them in government. And then VOTE accordingly!

For the LORD, the sacred gift of life, and remembrance of the babies,
